Approaches to Teaching Austen’s Mansfield Park
Marcia McClintock Folsom and John Wiltshire, eds.

“The scope is admirable, and the volume makes a valuable addition to Austen scholarship and pedagogy.”
—Laura White
John E. Weaver Professor of English
University of Nebraska, Lincoln

This volume is the third in the MLA Approaches series to deal with Austen’s work.

It provides information about editions, film adaptations, and digital resources.

Nineteen essays discuss various aspects of Mansfield Park, including the slave trade, the theme of reading, elements of tragedy, gift theory, landscape design, moral improvement in the spirit of Samuel Johnson and of the Reformation, sibling relations, card playing, and interpretations of Fanny Price, the heroine, not as passive but as having some control.

TOWARD A FEMALE GENEALOGY OF TRANSCENDENTALISM
Edited by Jana L. Argersinger and Phyllis Cole
PAPER, $39.95 | 978-0-8203-4677-9

“An astonishing record of scholarship that examines transcendentalism from the perspective of women writers. The seventeen essays in this collection (and the ‘interludes’ of primary texts interwoven throughout the volume) are proof that women contributed directly and positively to the movement of transcendentalism. No one who reads these outstanding essays and engaging primary materials will doubt that fact.”—Susan Belasco, editor of Stowe in Her Own Time: A Biographical Chronicle of Her Life, Drawn from Recollections, Interviews, and Memoirs by Family, Friends, and Associates

APOCALYPTIC SENTIMENTALISM
Love and Fear in U.S. Antebellum Literature
Kevin Pelletier
CLOTH, $49.95 | 978-0-8203-3948-1

“Kevin Pelletier’s Apocalyptic Sentimentalism makes an important and original contribution to critical debates about the structure and logic of sympathy in the antebellum period. Through careful readings of abolitionist literature from David Walker through Maria Stewart, Harriet Beecher Stowe, and John Brown, he reveals just how significant the threat of apocalypse and its concomitant production of fear worked in concert with appeals to sympathy and, as Stowe put it, ‘feeling right.’”—Cindy Weinstein, author of Family, Kinship, and Sympathy in Nineteenth-Century American Literature

De/fi ning America as an artificial construct addicted to imaginary histories that cover up the violent acts of building a homogeneous nation, Rebecca Mark looks at the artistic record of indigenous peoples and enslaved Africans as a way of reconstructing American democracy.

The Pan American Imagination crosses academic disciplines and draws on literature and other art forms to examine the historical phenomenon of Pan Americanism.
Thoroughly researched, written from a nonpartisan perspective, and as lively as a novel, this is the definitive biography of the revered Cuban patriot and martyr whose revolutionary movement eventually ended the Spanish colonial domination of Cuba.
