Push Comes to Shove
NEW IMAGES OF AGGRESSIVE WOMEN
Maud Lavin

“Push Comes to Shove is eloquent and inspiring. Simultaneously realistic and hopeful about the place and reception of strong women in contemporary society, this is an important book for all researchers on women and girls, and will be of interest to general audiences as well.”
— Leslie Heywood, author of Pretty Good for a Girl and Built to Win

312 pp., 19 illus., $27.95 cloth

Laughter
NOTES ON A PASSION
Anca Parvulescu

“In her Laughter: Notes on a Passion, Anca Parvulescu offers a unique answer to the great riddle of the drives in psychoanalytic theory. Eros and Thanatos, life drive and death drive, are shown to have their common ground in that uncanny convolution of the body that erupts in a burst of laughter. I know of no book that so rigorously and delightfully gets us to take laughter seriously.”
— Eric L. Santner, author of The Royal Remains: The People’s Two Bodies and the Endgames of Sovereignty

Short Circuits series, edited by Slavoj Žižek
208 pp., 30 illus., $21.95 paper

Visit our e-books store: http://mitpress-ebooks.mit.edu
The Problem Body
Projecting Disability on Film
Edited by Sally Chivers and Nicole Markočić
2010 256 pp.
$49.95 cloth 978-0-8142-1124-3
$9.95 CD 978-0-8142-9222-8

Uncanny Subjects
Aging in Contemporary Narrative
Amelia DeFalco
2010 192 pp.
$34.95 cloth 978-0-8142-1113-7
$9.95 CD 978-0-8142-9211-2