Camera Obscura provides a forum for scholarship and debate on feminism, culture, and media studies. The journal encourages contributions in areas such as the conjunctures of gender, race, class, and sexuality with audiovisual culture; new histories and theories of film, television, video, and digital media; and politically engaged approaches to a range of media practices.

Contributor Information
Camera Obscura seeks substantial essays (approximately 6,500–9,000 words, including endnotes and references) that engage with current academic and popular debates in feminism, culture, and media studies. We encourage potential contributors to browse recent issues of the journal for examples of the types of scholarship we currently seek.

Camera Obscura is also interested in short pieces (750–2,500 words) on current media practices, practitioners, resources, events, or issues for the section “In Practice: Feminism/Culture/Media.” The editors encourage authors to use the short format to experiment with form in a critical context. The section includes solicited contributions and open submissions, with the intention of enriching dialogue between feminist media scholarship and the practices—production, distribution, exhibition, organizing, curating, archiving, research, and so on—that sustain it.

Please submit one electronic copy (as a Microsoft Word email attachment to cameraobscura@filmandmedia.ucsb.edu) of the manuscript with a cover letter. Manuscripts should be double-spaced and use endnotes. Camera Obscura’s documentation style follows The Chicago Manual of Style, 17th ed., chap. 14.

Camera Obscura, Department of Film and Media Studies, University of California, Santa Barbara, CA 93106-4010; fax: 805-893-8630; email: cameraobscura@filmandmedia.ucsb.edu.

Indexing and Abstract Listings
For a list of sources in which Camera Obscura is indexed and abstracted, see www.dukeupress.edu/camera-obscura.

© 2019 by Camera Obscura
ISSN 0270-5346
Beyoncé’s Soft Power:
Poetics and Politics of an Afro-Diasporic Aesthetics
Ellen McLarney

Sentimental Activism as Queer-Feminist Documentary Practice; or, How to Make Love in a Room Full of People
Feng-Mei Heberer

“The Harder I Swim, the Faster I Sink”:
Top of the Lake’s Female Detective in the Global Television Economy
Alison Wielgus

A Tale of Two Feminists?
Hannah Arendt Revisited by Margarethe von Trotta
Yosefa Loshitzky

Not Your Mother’s Melodrama:
Three Twenty-First-Century Women’s Films
E. L. McCallum

The Story of Untold Displacements:
Buddhist-Muslim Intimacies and Visions of Ethnic Coexistence in a Thai Queer-Feminist Filmic Archive
Arnika Fuhrmann

In Practice

Women with Cameras:
The Invention of the Selfie in the Photography of Anne Collier
Liz Linden

Affronting Stardom / Confronting Sexual Violence
Lynne Joyrich