Teaching Narrative Theory

Edited by David Herman, Brian McHale, and James Phelan

“Simply one of the most coherent and engaging academic books I’ve read in a good while.”
—Garrett Stewart
University of Iowa

Teaching Narrative Theory provides a comprehensive resource for instructors who aim to help students identify and understand the distinctive features of narrativity in a text or discourse and make use of the terms and concepts of the field.

JNT showcases theoretically sophisticated essays that examine narrative in a host of critical, interdisciplinary, or cross-cultural contexts. Of particular interest are history and narrative; cultural studies and popular culture; discourses of class, gender, sexuality, race, nationality, subalternity, and ethnicity; film theory, queer theory, and media studies; new historical, poststructural, or global approaches to narrative forms (literary or otherwise); along with essays that span or subvert epistemic and disciplinary boundaries. JNT is multi-genre, multi-period, multinational.

Submission Guidelines:

Manuscripts should follow the latest edition of the MLA style manual. Recommended length is 20-35 pages (double spaced with one-inch margins.)
