Comparative Studies of South Asia, Africa and the Middle East

Comparative Studies of South Asia, Africa and the Middle East (CSSAAME) is a unique bi-annual. Moving beyond the paradigmatic divides of area studies, scholarly articles and review essays in CSSAAME explore the shared concerns and histories of the region, offer stimulating perspectives on interdisciplinary debates and challenge established analytical models. Launched in 1995, CSSAAME has merged with the former South Asia Bulletin and publishes articles from around the world. CSSAAME provides a distinctive link between European and American academia and scholars living and working in Africa, the Middle East and Asia. Theme-focus sections generated by CSSAME’s international editorial board bring fresh in-depth analysis and innovative research to North American readers, enabling a new dialogue.

Critical Acclaim:

...extremely impressive...a great move to fuse the entire region, not in the old “area studies framework” but on the basis of a perception that originates from within the cultures of the region. Absolutely marvelous!!

(Robert A. Hill, UCLA)

...surely one of the most impressive additions to the periodical literature of recent years.

(David S. Landes, Harvard University)
