Making Love: Sentiment and Sexuality in Eighteenth-Century British Literature
BY PAUL KELLEHER
In this study, Paul Kelleher revises the history of sexuality from the vantage point of the literary history of sentimentalism. Kelleher demonstrates how eighteenth-century British philosophers, essayists, and novelists fundamentally reconceived the relations among sentiment, sexuality, and moral virtue. It is his contention that sentimental discourse posited heterosexual desire as the precondition of moral feeling and conduct.

Sovereign Power and the Enlightenment: Eighteenth-Century Literature and the Problem of the Political
BY PETER DEGABRIELE
This study examines the role of the novelists and historians of the eighteenth century in developing a vision of political modernity that questions traditional narratives about the rise of liberalism and the decline of sovereign power. Degabriele shows how these authors use the resources of their respective genres to expose the persistence of sovereign violence and to outline a type of political subject who could resist the violence more effectively.

Textual Vision: Augustan Design and the Invention of Eighteenth-Century British Culture
BY TIMOTHY ERWIN
A stylish critique of literary attitudes towards painting, Textual Vision explores the simultaneous rhetorical formation and empirical fragmentation of visual reading in enlightenment Britain. It provides reliable interpretive poles for reading enlightenment imagery, offers vivid new readings of familiar works, and promises to invigorate the study of Restoration and eighteenth-century visual culture.

Global Romanticism: Origins, Orientations, and Engagements, 1760-1820
EDITED BY EVAN GOTTLIEB
Global Romanticism charts a new intellectual course by exploring the Romantic era through the lens of long-durational globalization. This provocative collection makes the case that many British Romantics conceptualized their world as an increasingly interconnected whole. In doing so, they grappled with early modern versions of the transnational forces of globalization.

Beyond Sense and Sensibility: Moral Formation and the Literary Imagination from Johnson to Wordsworth
EDITED BY PEGGY THOMPSON
This collection addresses questions about the formation of moral identities and communities raised during the last half of the eighteenth century, when “sensibility” and its less celebrated corollary “sense” were subject to constant critique and contestation. The conceptual and textual breadth of the collection yields a rich reassessment and augmentation of the two perspectives summarized by the terms sense and sensibility.

Citizens of the World: Adapting in the Eighteenth Century
EDITED BY KEVIN L. COPE & SAMARA ANNE CAHILL
Taking as its point of embarkation awareness of the mutuality of foreignness—of the unfamiliarity that characterizes all parties to a meeting of the minds, ways, or traditions—this exploratory volume considers the many approaches and strategies to adaptation in the Enlightenment and the complex process of reciprocal adjustment that created this enthusiastically outgoing era internationally.
