A Spaniard originally from Italy, the polymath Lorenzo Boturini Benaduci, traveled to New Spain in 1736. Becoming fascinated by the Mesoamerican cultures of the New World, he collected and copied native writings. Boturini’s collection became the basis of his Idea of a New General History of North America. The volume is presented here in English for the first time, along with the Catálogo, Boturini’s annotated enumeration of the works he had gathered in New Spain.

North American Indian Art: Masterpieces and Museum Collections from the Netherlands showcases 114 outstanding examples of Native art and heritage from the Canadian subarctic forests to the American Southwest preserved in Dutch museums.

The Tarahumara, one of North America’s oldest surviving aboriginal groups and though they live in relative isolation in Chihuahua, Mexico, their agility in long-distance running is famous worldwide. Tarahumara Medicine is the first in-depth look into the culture that sustains the “great runners.” Having spent a decade in Tarahumara communities, author Fructuoso Irigoyen-Rascón is uniquely qualified as a guide to the Rarámuri’s approach to medicine and healing.
MALINCHE, POCAHONTAS, AND SACAGAWEA
Indian Women as Cultural Intermediaries and National Symbols
By Rebecca Kay Jager
$29.95 HARDCOVER • 320 PAGES • 18 B&W ILLUS.

The first Europeans to arrive in North America’s various regions relied on Native women to help them navigate unfamiliar customs and places. This study of three well-known and legendary female cultural intermediaries, Malinche, Pocahontas, and Sacagawea, examines their initial contact with Euro-Americans, their negotiation of multinational frontiers, and their symbolic representation over time.

THROUGH INDIAN SIGN LANGUAGE
The Fort Sill Ledgers of Hugh Lenox Scott and Iseeo, 1889–1897
Edited by William C. Meadows
$55.00 HARDCOVER • 520 PAGES • 25 B&W ILLUS.

Hugh Lenox Scott spent a portion of his early career at Fort Sill, in Indian and, later, Oklahoma Territory. There, he commanded Troop L, 7th Cavalry, an all-Indian unit. From members of this unit, Scott collected three volumes of information on American Indian life and culture. This remarkable resource appears here in full for the first time, put into context by noted scholar William C. Meadows.
“On Native Grounds: Studies of Native American Histories and the Land” is a National Endowment for the Humanities summer institute sponsored by the Community College Humanities Association. It is an opportunity for seventeen select faculty participants from two-year community and four-year colleges, tribal colleges, and universities, and three graduate students in a humanities discipline, to enhance their teaching and research through a three-week residency at the Library of Congress, and by engaging with prominent scholars in the field of Native American ethnohistory and legal history. The Institute schedule features a rich schedule of interdisciplinary seminars on Native American history and ethnohistory by the following eight distinguished Visiting Faculty Scholars:

Ned Blackhawk (Western Shoshone), Professor of History & American Studies and Director of Undergraduate Studies in American Studies at Yale
Kathleen Du Val is an Associate Professor in the Department of History at UNC, Chapel Hill
C. Joseph Genetin-Pilawa is Assistant Professor of History at George Mason University
Daniel K. Richter is Professor of American History and Director of the McNeil Center for Early American Studies, University of Pennsylvania.
John Rennie Short is Professor of Public Policy at the University of Maryland, Baltimore County
Michael Witgen (Red Cliff Ojibwe), holds a joint professorship in the Department of American Culture and the Department of History at the University of Michigan
Gray Whaley is Associate Professor in the Department of History at Southern Illinois University
John Wunder is Professor emeritus of History and Journalism, University of Nebraska-Lincoln

Stipend: The stipend for the “Native Grounds” Institute includes pre-arranged and pre-paid lodging and breakfast for twentyseven nights at the Capitol Hill Hotel, adjacent to the Library of Congress, plus a cash stipend of $600 to help defray costs of travel and meals.
