The Truman Administration and Bolivia
Making the World Safe for Liberal Constitutional Oligarchy
Glenn J. Dorn
New in Paperback
“Glenn Dorn has provided us with an important and insightful study based on extensive archival research. . . . The book is warmly recommended for any scholar working on Bolivia, the Truman Administration, or the international tin industry, and is a must-read for those of us fortunate enough to be interested in all three.”
—Mats Ingulstad, Journal of American Culture
264 pages

Our Indigenous Ancestors
A Cultural History of Museums, Science, and Identity in Argentina, 1877–1943
Carolyne R. Larson
“In dialogue with the current literature on the role of indigenous peoples in the evolution of the Argentine nation, Our Indigenous Ancestors makes a crucial contribution to our understanding of how a particular interpretation of Argentina’s past was produced and consumed in the contradictory interaction between science and colonialism.”
—Florence E. Mallon, University of Wisconsin–Madison
232 pages | 29 illustrations

Venezuela Before Chávez
Anatomy of an Economic Collapse
Edited by Ricardo Hausmann and Francisco R. Rodríguez
New in Paperback
“The volume reflects a worthy and systematic exercise, carried out with impressive methodological and analytical rigor. . . . Venezuela Before Chávez is not just a product of scrupulous academic research. It is also, as the authors understand . . . a helpful and coherent guide for those who devise policies and make decisions in a country so reliant on oil.” —Michael Shifter, ReVista Magazine
488 pages | 62 illustrations
The Department of History at the University of California, Santa Barbara invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professorship in colonial Latin American history. Appointment begins July 1, 2016. PhD expected at time of appointment. The search is open to scholars working on any region of Latin America during the colonial period, ca. 1492-1825. The fields of specialization are open, but candidates must have a strong record of archival and colonial sources research experience. We particularly welcome candidates whose work considers global frameworks, interdisciplinary and comparative approaches, as well as theoretical questions concerning colonialism and empire. Knowledge of indigenous languages is desirable but not required.

The department seeks candidates who can contribute to the diversity and excellence of the academic community through research, teaching, and service. The successful candidate will contribute to the department's lower- and upper-division, and graduate history curriculum.

Applicants should apply at: https://recruit.ap.ucsb.edu/apply/JPF00557. Applications should include a cover letter including discussion of current and future research, curriculum vitae, writing sample, and at least three letters of recommendation. Materials must be received by November 15, 2015. Address inquiries to Professor Cecilia Méndez, Colonial Latin American History Search Committee Chair, at mendez@history.ucsb.edu.

The University of California at Santa Barbara is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, disability, protected veteran status, or any other characteristic protected by law. For more information on the History Department, visit our website at: http://www.history.ucsb.edu.
Ethnohistory

Robbie Ethridge and Matthew Restall, editors

The official journal of the American Society for Ethnohistory

Ethnohistory reflects the wide range of current scholarship inspired by anthropological and historical approaches to the human condition. Of particular interest are those analyses and interpretations that seek to make evident the experience, organization, and identities of indigenous, diasporic, and minority peoples that otherwise elude the histories and anthropologies of nations, states, and colonial empires.

Stay up to date.
Sign up for table-of-contents and keyword alerts at ethnohistory.dukejournals.org.

Subscribe today!
Quarterly. Subscription includes membership in the American Society for Ethnohistory.

Individuals: $50  Students: $25 (copy of valid student ID required)  Single issues: $15 dukeupress.edu/ethnohistory  memberships@dukeupress.edu  888-651-0122