MAYA CACIQUES IN EARLY NATIONAL YUCATÁN
By Rajeshwari Dutt
$29.95 HARDCOVER · 200 PAGES

Andrés Canché became the cacique, or indigenous leader, of Cenotillo, Yucatán, in January 1834. By his retirement in 1864, he had become an expert politician, balancing powerful local alliances with his community’s interests as early national Yucatán underwent major political and social shifts. In Maya Caciques in Early National Yucatán, Rajeshwari Dutt uses Canché’s story as a compelling microhistory to open a new perspective on the role of the cacique in postindependence Yucatán.

Without question World Policy Journal is in a class by itself.
—Victor Navasky, The Nation

The journal is one of the few places where one can find fresh arguments by writers who know what they’re talking about on subjects where debate is scarce. . . . That’s a lot more influential than publishing big names on issues that have already been explored in great detail.
