Better Doctors, Better Patients, Better Decisions
Envisioning Health Care 2020
edited by Gerd Gigerenzer and J. A. Muir Gray
How eliminating “risk illiteracy” among doctors and patients will lead to better health care decision making.

Disease Eradication in the 21st Century
Implications for Global Health
edited by Stephen L. Cochi and Walter R. Dowdle
“This excellent and detailed study on the applicability of eradication of disease in the global health field comes at a time when the world is about to eradicate polio. These findings will be of great interest to many involved in global health in all its facets, not solely disease eradication.”
— Kalyan Banerjee, 2011-12 President, Rotary International

Call for Papers

JHPPL Special Issue on Public Health Law Research

The Journal of Health Politics, Policy and Law invites submissions for a special issue on public health law research (PHLR) planned for early 2013.

Eligible Papers
Papers must address a topic in public health law—defined as the relation of law and legal practices to population health—and fit one or more of the following descriptions:

Empirical research reports: Manuscripts in this category report empirical, scientific studies of the relation of law and legal practices to population health.

Systematic reviews: Manuscripts in this category systematically review empirical studies on the relationship of a particular law, area of law, or set of legal practices on population health.

Methods papers: Manuscripts in this category focus on how particular methods of empirical investigation can be used to study public health law questions and advance the rigor of PHLR as a field.

Agenda-setting papers: Manuscripts in this category focus on a particular topic in public health law and articulate an agenda for research and lawmakers.

The target audiences for these papers include academic researchers; public health policy makers at the local, state, and federal levels; and public health legal practitioners. Papers should be accessible to all of these audiences.

Submission Guidelines
Submission instructions are available at www.dukeupress.edu/Catalog/ViewProduct.php?viewby=journal&productid=45615. Submissions must be complete paper drafts and must not exceed 5,000 words exclusive of tables, references, and notes.

Authors should submit full manuscripts at www.editorialmanager.com/jhppl/ by March 15, 2012.
