"It's the very best journal of its kind. It is substantial, relevant, and a must for policy analysts, practitioners, and academicians."

—Amiria Etzioni, The George Washington University

Journal of Policy Analysis and Management

Published quarterly, the Journal of Policy Analysis and Management represents a vital international forum for the publication of outstanding contemporary research and analysis in the field. As a subscriber, you'll find intensive, original papers on every major area of domestic and international public policy, as well as articles on how technology and important analytical tools can further sharpen your policy-making skills. Reading JPAM, you'll engage in the mutual exchange of ideas with policy analysts, academicians, government managers, and corporate officials from all over the world. And you'll better define your own professional identity and role with the help of JPAM's cogent articles on ethics, tactics, and the inevitable dilemmas that confront policy-makers.

Recent issues have included such in-depth research as:

- The Congressional Veto: Shifting the Balance of Administrative Control—Robert S. Gilmour
- Professionals at Bay: Managing Boston's Public Schools—Robert Wood
- Is the Consumer Price Index a Fair Measure of Inflation?—Richard W. Wahl
- International Agencies and the Art of the Possible: The Case of the IEA—Robert O. Keohane
- Restraining Auto Imports: Does Anyone Win?—Jose A. Gomez-Ibanez, Robert A. Leone and Stephen A. O'Connell
- The Bird in the Hand: A Feasible Strategy for Gun Control—Mark H. Moore

Supported by such regular features as topical book reviews, listings of working papers on ongoing research, and case notes for public policy instructors, the Journal of Policy Analysis and Management is your source for the most complete perspectives on advances in this rapidly moving field.

International Journal of HEALTH SERVICES

Editor: Vicente Navarro, M.D.
School of Hygiene and Public Health
The Johns Hopkins University

The journal analyzes the different political, social and economical forces that shape the nature of health, disease, medicine and public health. It deals with the politics, policy, law, ethics and philosophy of health and medicine. As one student indicated, "It represents a breath of fresh air in the rather orthodox intellectual environment." The articles tend to be written in plain English, their message accessible to all audiences, professional and non-professional alike. Titles and authors of recent articles include:

HEALTH AND SOCIAL POLICY
Health Planning as a Regulatory Strategy: A Discussion of Its History and Current Uses by Louis Tannen
Social Indicators: For Individual Well-Being or Social Control? by Francois Nectoux, John Lintott, and Roy Carr-Hill
Sociobiology: Another Biological Determinism by R. C. Lewontin On Lies and Health Statistics: Some Latin American Examples
   by Jose Carlos Escuderos
Bankrupting America: President Reagan's Military Budget by James R. Anderson

HEALTH ECONOMICS
The Theory of Social Services in Disaccumulationist Capitalism by Larry Hirschhorn Prosperity—of the Capitalist Variety—As a Cause of Death by Richard Cooper
Laying on the Invisible Hand: Ideology in Health Economics by Sander Kelman

THE POLITICS OF NEW TECHNOLOGIES
The Diffusion of the Computed Tomography (CT) Scanner in the United States
   by David Banta
The Diffusion of Medical Techniques to Less Developed Countries
