Editorial Introduction  • 1
FRANCES S. HASSO

ARTICLES

“It Used to Be Forbidden”: Kurdish Women and the Limits of Gaining Voice  • 3
MARLENE SCHÄFERS

Cruising Baghdad: Desire between Men in the 1930s Fiction of Dhu al-Nun Ayyub  • 25
PELLE VALENTIN OLSEN
Winner of the 2017 JMEWS Graduate Student Paper Prize

Aspirational Maternalism and the “Reconstitution” of Single Mothers in Morocco  • 45
JESSICA MARIE NEWMAN

REVIEW ESSAYS

Sex and the Perils of Traveling Authors and Notions  • 68
ZEINA G. HALABI

May the Weak Be Helped! Accidental Camp and the Rehearsal of Irony  • 75
SOFIAN MERABET

Iranian Women in Focus at Tehran’s Fajr Film Festival  • 78
KAVEH BASSIRI
REVIEWS

Gender and Dance in Modern Iran: Biopolitics on Stage by Ida Meftahi • 83
Heather Rastovac-Akbarzadeh

Women, Dance, and Revolution: Performance and Protest in the Southern Mediterranean by Rose Martin • 86
Paromita Kar

Le corps dans le roman des écrivaines syriennes contemporaines: Dire, écrire, inscrire la différence by Martina Censi • 89
Emily Drumsta

THIRD SPACE

Cover Art Concept

Artist’s Note • 92
Iz Öztat

Editor’s Note • 92
Frances S. Hasso

Thinking Life, Death, and Solidarity through Colonized Palestine: An Interview with Jasbir K. Puar • 94
Kathryn Medien

Dissident Subjects: In Honor of Miriam Cooke

Thinking the Mediterranean with Lalla Maryama • 104
Susan Slyomovics

Speculation; or, Living in the Face of the Intolerable • 109
Ranjana Khanna

Thinking Women, Feminism, and Muslim Identity through Bodies and Space in Turkey • 116
Banu Gökarişel

Islamic Feminism between Islam and Islamophobia • 124
Hina Azam
miriam cooke: A Pioneer of Middle East Women’s Studies • 129
SUAD JOSEPH

Keeping the Gates Open • 133
MARGOT BADRAN

Reciprocal Transmission: My “Women and War” Journey with miriam cooke • 137
EVELYNE ACCAD

To miriam • 141
MAHA HOUSSAMI