Labor and Working Class History Association (LAWCHA) announces the winner of the 2018 Herbert Gutman Prize for Outstanding Dissertation in Labor and Working-class history in 2017:

Nicholas Albert Juravich
(Columbia University, Advisor: Mae M. Ngai)

New from Duke University Press

Counterproductive
Time Management in the Knowledge Economy
MELISSA GREGG

“A timely, innovative, and compelling work, Counterproductive will be met with great enthusiasm by a broadly interdisciplinary group of readers in sociology, political theory, cultural studies, women’s and gender studies, and critical management studies.”—Kathi Weeks

Garbage Citizenship
Vital Infrastructures of Labor in Dakar, Senegal
ROSALIND FREDERICKS

“Garbage Citizenship is a major intervention that proposes new ways of thinking about religion, labor, community, and citizenship at the intersections of public health and the political economy of garbage collection disposal, infrastructures, and workforce. It’s an engaging and perceptive ethnography of material desires and ethical contradictions examined through the stories of the various actors involved in the municipal and state politics in the era of neoliberal reform.”—Mamadou Diouf

A Primer for Teaching Women, Gender, and Sexuality in World History
Ten Design Principles
MERRY E. WIESNER-HANKS and URMI ENGINEER WILLOUGHBY

“Magnificent! This primer is at once a how-to manual for designing a stimulating history course, a guide to navigating higher-ed bureaucracy, an invitation to reflect on your own pedagogical practice, and an outstanding annotated reading list... It’s a remarkable accomplishment and a lively read.”—Laura J. Mitchell
