Arrogant Beggar

Anzia Yeziarska

Introduction by Katherine Stubbs

“While Yeziarska’s writing stands in sharp contrast to the quantity of fiction by middle- and upper-class white women writers so prevalent in the late nineteenth century and early twentieth, what is particularly interesting about Arrogant Beggar is that it focuses more directly on class than do most of her novels. Katherine Stubbs’s introduction is comprehensive, helpful, beautifully written, and convincing—a model of scholarship and insight.”—Linda Wagner-Martin, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill

Fred L. Gardaphé

“Bursting with energy and insights. Fred Gardaphé has added a powerful and original chapter to the literary history of modern America.”
—Frank Lentricchia

Models of Value

Eighteenth-Century Political Economy and the Novel

James Thompson

"Models of Value makes one of those reconceptualizations of a literary and cultural field that seems obvious only in retrospect . . . Once one thinks of the novel's cultural functions in relation to those of political economy, it is hard to see how past discussions of the novel have managed to ignore the crisis in 'value' addressed in eighteenth-century concerns with money and monetary function."—Kristina Straub, Carnegie Mellon University 280 pages, paper $16.95, library cloth edition $45.95

New Science, New World

Denise Albanese

"New Science, New World breaks new ground in connecting literary form to the advent of modernity as manifested in scientific discourse and colonial exploration. This phenomenally learned book is a real intervention in early modern cultural studies."—Dympna Callaghan, Syracuse University 264 pages, 9 illustrations, paper $15.95, library cloth edition $45.95

Secret Sharers in Italian Comedy

From Machiavelli to Goldoni

Jackson I. Cope

"Cope has defined a counter-generic genre that sharpens and refines our understanding of the distinctive Italian contribution to the history of theater. His analysis is shrewd, and his careful close readings of a large number of plays make this fascinating theater of complicity available to readers with little or no Italian."—Walter Stephens, Dartmouth College
