What Counts as World Literature?

A Special Issue of Modern Language Quarterly

Introduction

Caroline Levine and B. Venkat Mani • What Counts as World Literature? 141

Articles

David Damrosch • World Literature in a Postliterary Age 151

Rebecca L. Walkowitz • Close Reading in an Age of Global Writing 171

Azade Seyhan • “World Literatures Reimagined”: Sara Suleri’s Meatless Days and A. H. Tanpınar’s Five Cities 197

Caroline Levine • The Great Unwritten: World Literature and the Effacement of Orality 217

B. Venkat Mani • Borrowing Privileges: Libraries and the Institutionalization of World Literature 239

Peter Höyng • “The Gospel of World Harmony”; or, Beethoven’s Transformation of Schiller’s “An die Freude” into World Music Literature 261

Paulo de Medeiros • Blindness, Invisibility, and the Negative Inheritance of World Literature 277

Djelal Kadir • World Literature: The Allophone, the Differential, and the Common 293