Essays

Timothy Anderson  ■  There’s Something about Murray: Victorian Literary Societies and Alfred Forman’s Translation of Richard Wagner’s Der Ring des Nibelungen  281

Sam Alexander  ■  Population Thinking and Narrative Networks: Dickens, Joyce, and The Wire  315

Michael Lackey  ■  The Autonomy of Art and the Legitimization of Biofiction: An Aesthetic Turning Point in Twentieth-Century Literature  345

Reviews

Stephen Hinds  ■  Derek Attridge, The Experience of Poetry: From Homer’s Listeners to Shakespeare’s Readers  371

William A. Oram  ■  Catherine Nicholson, Reading and Not Reading “The Faerie Queene”: Spenser and the Making of Literary Criticism  376

Katharine Ann Jensen  ■  Pamela L. Cheek, Heroines and Local Girls: The Transnational Emergence of Women’s Writing in the Long Eighteenth Century  379

MLQ and the Project of Literary History: A Special Section in Tribute to the Outgoing Editor

Barbara Fuchs  ■  Literary History Writ Large; or, The Multilingual MLQ  387

Jed Esty  ■  The Life after Texts, the Life within Them  393
Katherine Bode  ■ The Difference an Editor Makes  401

Lauren M. E. Goodlad  ■ Marshall Brown, Editor Extraordinaire  405

Susan Wolfson and Ronald Levao  ■ An Appreciation of Marshall Brown  407

Jonathan Arac  ■ MLQ and Marshall Brown among Their Peers  409

MLQ Special Issues since 1990  415