New German Critique

Number 125 • August 2015

Figuring Lateness in Modern German Culture

Issue Editor: Karen Leeder

Figuring Lateness in Modern German Culture
Karen Leeder ............................................................ 1

Defending Lateness: Deliberations on Acceleration, Attention, and Lateness, 1900–2000
Anne Fuchs ............................................................ 31

Ernst Bloch, Ungleichzeitigkeit, and the Philosophy of Being and Time
Peter Thompson ..................................................... 49

Old-Age Style: The Case of Arnold Schoenberg (1874–1951)
Joy H. Calico ............................................................ 65

As If It Were for the Last Time: Wim Wenders—Film and Photography
George Kouvaros ..................................................... 81

Aging, Late Style, and Untimeliness in Recent Literary Fiction by Martin Walser
Stuart Taberner ........................................................ 97

Encountering Lateness in Postunification Berlin
Simon Ward ............................................................ 115

Beyond Lateness? “Postmemory” and the Late(st) German-Language Family Novel
Kirstin Gwyer .......................................................... 137