Articles

The Writing Teacher Who Writes: Creative Writing, Ancient Rhetoric, and Composition Instruction | Mary Hedengren 191

Teaching the Short-Story Cycle, Teaching American Literature | Jennifer J. Smith 207

Making Ends Meet: Literature Pedagogy, Faculty–Graduate Student Teamwork, and Undergraduate Literacy | Andrew Weeks, et al. 229

The Words Students Need and How They Can Learn Them: Teaching Literary Vocabulary in the Twenty-First Century | Patrick C. Fleming 251

Frameworks for Failure | Daniel M. Gross and Jonathan Alexander 273

Roundtable

Teaching the Long Poem by Nineteenth-Century British Women Writers

Introduction | Donelle Ruwe 297

Charlotte Smith’s Beachy Head and the Lyric Mode | Donelle Ruwe 300

A Novel Approach to Teaching a Long Poem: Ellen Fitzarthur | Stephen Behrendt 308

Letitia Landon’s “The Fairy of the Fountains” and Gothic Narrative | Kari Lokke 315

Teaching Amy Levy’s “Xantippe” | Linda K. Hughes 323

“Let Me Count the Ways”: Teaching the Many-Faceted Aurora Leigh | Florence S. Boos 333
From the Classroom

Using Wikipedia to Teach Audience, Genre, and Collaboration | Alan Bilansky 347

Monstrosity and the Majority: Defamiliarizing Race in the University Classroom | Clayton Zuba 356

Paradoxes in the Classroom: When Strategies for Empowerment Also Constrain | Lisa Propst and Jade Kierbow Loicano 368

Contributors 377