

Pedagogy

Critical Approaches
to Teaching
Literature, Language,
Composition, and Culture

October 2018
Volume 18
Issue 3

Commentary

“Tell Me What You [Read], and I’ll Tell You Who You Are”: Texts about Food and the Readers Who Devour Them | Jeraldine R. Kraver 391

Articles

The State of Scholarship on Teaching Literature | Paul T. Corrigan 415

Enabling Geographies: Mapping Campus Spaces through Disability and Access | Fernando Sánchez 433

Pedagogy & American Literary Studies (PALS) and the Development of Sustainable Online Teaching Communities | Brianne Jaquette, Shelli Homer, and Gregory D. Specter 457

Flipping Professional Development: Engaging Instructor Needs and Changing the Visibility of WPA Work | Elizabeth Brewer, Nora McCook, and Kay Halasek 483

Delivery, Facilitas, and Copia: Job Market Preparation and the Revival of the Fifth Canon | Joseph Turner 511

From the Classroom

Guest Editors: Terri Reeves, Deborah Meister, Tyler Judd, and Tess Bloem

The I Who Arrives: A Meditation on History as Inheritance | Tayana L. Hardin 531

Multimodalities Multiplied: Teaching Comics in an Active Learning Classroom | Chester Scoville 540

The OED in the Literature Classroom | Tara Williams 547

“The Course of Her Whimsical Adventures”: “Fantomina” and
Trigger Warnings at a Women’s College | Kate Levin   550

The Uses of Disclosure: Building a Rhetorical Scaffolding to Fight
Stigma in the Writing Classroom | N. Renuka Uthappa   566

Contributors   573