

Pedagogy seeks to create a discourse surrounding teaching in English studies by fusing theoretical approaches and practical realities. As a journal devoted exclusively to pedagogical issues, it is a forum for critical reflection as well as a site for spirited and informed debate from a multiplicity of positions and perspectives. The journal strives to reverse the long-standing marginalization of teaching and the scholarship produced around it and instead to assert the centrality of teaching to our work as scholars and professionals.

Submission Guidelines

Electronic submission is strongly preferred. Send submissions to pedagogy@calvin.edu. Otherwise, submit four copies by mail. Consideration will be given to previously unpublished full-length articles or commentary of no more than 30 typed, double-spaced pages (approx. 10,000 words). Prepare submissions according to The Chicago Manual of Style, 17th edition. All references to the author's identity must be removed. Manuscripts meeting these criteria and judged to be within the scope of the journal's mission will be submitted to outside anonymous review.

Send all editorial correspondence to pedagogy@calvin.edu or Pedagogy, Department of English, Calvin College, 1795 Knollcrest Circle SE, Grand Rapids, MI 49546.

Send inquiries about reviews of scholarship, textbooks, and other teaching materials, including pedagogical websites, to the reviews editor, Mark C. Long, Department of English, Keene State College, 101 Parker Hall, Mailstop 1402, Keene, NH 03435 (mlong@keene.edu).

Send inquiries about contributing to "From the Classroom" to Elizabeth Brockman, Department of English, Central Michigan University, Mount Pleasant, MI 48859 (elizabeth.brockman@cmich.edu).
