Hunting the Ethical State
The Benkadi Movement of Côte d’Ivoire
Joseph Hellweg

“Movements like Benkadi—beyond their success or otherwise in securing particular political outcomes—reveal the vitality of political cultures and governance processes in which non-state actors are central. A powerful antidote to top-down, state-centric accounts, this book should be read by anyone interested in the real workings of politics and society in West Africa today.”

The Inconstancy of the Indian Soul
The Encounter of Catholics and Cannibals in Sixteenth-Century Brazil
Eduardo Viveiros de Castro

Eduardo Viveiros de Castro situates the Jesuit missionaries’ accounts of the Tupi people in historical perspective, and in the process draws out some startling and insightful implications of their perceived inconstancy in relation to anthropological debates on culture and religion.
