29.2 Editor’s Letter Shamus Khan • Calvin’s Problem: Racial Identity and Gun Ownership Harel Shapira • Thinking through Everyday Inequality Andrea M. Voyer • “Flesh like One’s Own”: Benign Denials of Legitimate Complaint Kaiama L. Glover • Frontier Heritage Migration in the Global Ethnic Economy Melissa Tandiwe Myambo • Killers: Orcas and Their Followers Graham Huggan • Margaret Lock Eugenie Raikhel • Subtitling Islam: Translation, Mediation, Critique Yasmin Moll • Affective Infrastructures and the Political Imagination Hannah Knox • Street Art and the Changing Urban Public Sphere Virág Molnár

29.1 Editor’s Letter Shamus Khan • The Ground Was Always in Play Madiha Tahir • A Fantastic Church? Literature, Politics, and the Afterlives of Afro-Protestantism Josef Sorett • Drawing Lines, Enacting Migration: Visual Prostheses of Bordering Europe Rogier van Reekum and Willem Schinkel • Palestinian State Maps and Imperial Technologies of Staying Put Jess Bier • A History of the Participatory Map Jo Guldi • History’s Back Rooms: Carlos Motta Interviewed by Heather Love • The Nature of the Image: Olgyay and Olgyay’s Architectural-Climatic Diagrams in the 1950s Daniel A. Barber • Human Territoriality and the Downfall of Public Housing Kenny Cupers • Captive: Zoometric Operations in Gaza Irus Braverman

See inside front cover for ordering information.
Public Culture reports and reflects current research on
• the cultural transformations associated with cities, media, and consumption;
• the cultural flows that draw cities, societies, and states into larger transnational relationships and global political economies;
• globalization.

Public Culture seeks to
• establish an international network of scholars committed to research on public culture issues and debates, and on such cosmopolitan cultural forms as cinema, sport, television and video, restaurants, domestic tourism, advertising, fiction, architecture, and museums;
• explore the cultural implications of such processes as migration, the internationalization of fiction, and the construction of alternative modernities;
• situate these forms, flows, and processes in their historical and political contexts;
• encourage contributions from intellectuals both inside and outside the academy.