"Likely to burn hands and scorch shelves..."

“A brutally honest book, one which will be not only a hot potato within the walls of the academy, but is likely to burn hands and scorch shelves far and wide.”
—Lambda Book Report

“One of the most important books about sexual politics to appear this year.”
—Pat Califia

Looking at Culture

Black British Cultural Studies
A Reader
Edited by Houston A. Baker, Jr., Manthia Diawara, and Ruth H. Lindeborg

"Essential reading for students and scholars interested in contemporary criticism, African-American studies, and cultural studies more generally."
—Henry Louis Gates, Jr., Harvard University
*Paper $16.95 348 pages

Cultural Producers In Perilous States
Editing Events, Documenting Change
Edited by George E. Marcus

"Through a series of stimulating and provocative interviews, the intellectuals and artists represented in this volume explain how they face up to the harsh realities as well as the faint possibilities of our era."
—George Lipsitz, University of California, San Diego
*Paper $23.50 424 pages

Performances
Greg Dening

"[Dening’s] work combines rigor, intellectual intensity, and a unique personal presence. Performances is a wonderful sampling of his profound reflections on the mythic structures we call ‘history.’"
—Stephen Greenblatt, University of California, Berkeley
*Paper $21.00 312 pages

Revolution and Subjectivity in Postwar Japan
J. Victor Koschmann

"Koschmann’s examination of the ‘debate on subjectivity’ offers a scrupulously researched, lucidly written, and deeply suggestive account of what is generally regarded as the true beginning of postwar Japanese thought."
—Andrew E. Barshay, University of California, Berkeley
*Paper $19.95 306 pages

Small Axe is a new journal of social, cultural, and political criticism from the Caribbean. Following in the tradition of journals such as New World Quarterly, Abeng, Socialism and Savacou, it is concerned to explore the new context of the Third World, that context shaped in part by the end of Bandung, by the new globalization, by the eclipse of marxism and cultural nationalism, and so on. Indeed our hope is through a critical engagement with the issues of our time to be part of the refashioning of social and political hopes for an alternative to our present.

Forthcoming Articles:

Rupert Lewis — Learning to Blow the Abeng
David Scott — ‘An Obscure Miracle of Connection’
Nadi Edwards — Iconic Drummond
Annie Paul — Pirates or Parrots?
Anthony Bogues — Shades of Red and Black

Comparative Studies of South Asia, Africa and the Middle East

South Asia Bulletin

Recent and Forthcoming

Sondra Hale, Gender Politics and Islamization in Sudan

Michael West, Indians, India and the Politics of Race and Nationalism in British Central Africa

Bruce Lawrence, Tracking Fundamentalists and Those Who Study Them

Carolyn A. Brown, Struggles over the Labor Process at Enugu Government Colliery, Nigeria

Pieter C. van Duin, South African Communism, the White Working Class, and the Ideology of Proletarian Non-Racialism

Joselyn Zivin, The Hybrid Origins of the Indian Press and Propaganda State

South Asia Bulletin is extremely impressive . . . a great move to fuse the entire region, not in the old "area studies framework" but on the basis of a perception that originates from within the cultures of the region. Absolutely marvelous!!

Diaspora is dedicated to the multidisciplinary study of the history, culture, social structure, political and economics of both the traditional diasporas -- Armenian, Greek, and Jewish -- and of those transnational dispersions that in the past three decades have chosen to identify themselves as "diasporas." These encompass groups ranging from the African-American to the Ukrainian-Canadian, from the Caribbean British to the new East and South Asian diasporas. The discourses of nationalism, transnationalism, ethnicity, postcolonialism and globalization constitute the semantic domain covered by the journal.

Edited by Khachig Tölölyan. Published three times a year by the University of Toronto Press.

Recent and forthcoming articles:
- Is the United States Postcolonial? Transnationalism, Immigration and Race, by Jenny Sharpe
- "Will the Model Minority Please Identify Itself?" American Ethnic Identity and its Discontents, by Ruth Y. Hsu
- "Bombay, U.K., Yuba City": Bhangra Music and the Engendering of Diaspora, by Gayatri Gopinath
- Gender and Social Capital Among Israeli Immigrants in Los Angeles, by Steven J. Gold

CELJ Best New Journal of the Year, 1991
"Written for a broad public audience, Diaspora does not just fulfill a special need in its discipline, it addresses the need for serious thinking about cultural, economic, and political matters as these matters play into human impulses toward separatism and communality." — CELJ Best New Journal panel jurist.

CINEMA JOURNAL

Journal of the
SOCIETY FOR CINEMA STUDIES

Cinema Journal prints recent scholarship by members on a wide variety of subjects from diverse methodological perspectives. A "Professional Notes" section informs SCS members about upcoming events, research opportunities, and the latest published research.

The field of cinema and television studies is diverse, challenging, multi-cultural, and multi-disciplinary. SCS brings together those who contribute to the study of film and television to facilitate scholarship and represent their professional interests, standards, and concerns.
