THE NATION INTERNSHIP PROGRAM

The Nation Institute, in conjunction with The Nation magazine, provides a comprehensive hands-on intern program for college students and recent graduates interested in magazine journalism and publishing.

The Nation, America's oldest weekly magazine, is a journal of politics and the arts. The Nation Institute is a public charity that supports research, conferences, educational programs and other projects with an emphasis on social justice, civil liberties and civil rights.

Interns check facts, do research, read and evaluate manuscripts and assist the publishing staff. Seven interns work in The Nation's New York office, and an additional internship is available in Washington D.C. Internships are offered during the fall and spring semesters as well as in the summer.

For deadlines and further information, send a S.A.S.E. to: The Nation Institute Intern Program, 72 Fifth Avenue, New York, NY 10011.

The London Hanged
Crime and Civil Society in the Eighteenth Century
Peter Linebaugh
"Contesting the current view of the eighteenth century as that of a prospering consumer society, and revealing its polar opposite in the desperate poverty and strategies for survival of the labouring people of the growing imperial metropolis, The London Hanged gives us exceptional insights, pitiless and without moralising, into the conditions of labouring life among those whom consumer society consumed."

The State Historical Society of Wisconsin has long been recognized as a crucial repository for historians, one with a special bond to activists. As the archive for the records of the Socialist Labor Party and the Socialist Workers Party, the Society has demonstrated its interest in documenting the institutional challenges to capitalism. As the pace of social protest grew in the 1960s, the society's Archives Division created the Social Action Collecting Project (now the Social Action Archive) to focus attention on contemporary movements. During the 1960s and 1970s, under the inspired leadership of the director of the project, Dr. Leslie H. Fishel, Jr., fieldworkers were dispersed across the United States to gather the papers of individuals and the records of organizations active in civil rights and later the antiwar movement.

Along with the correspondence and form letters, flyers, press releases, memos, minutes and manuscripts, came innumerable posters—some carefully designed and crafted, others produced by offset and silkscreen, but all conveying their political message through this social art form. The posters featured on the following pages are but a very small selection drawn from the Iconographic Collections held by the Visual and Sound Archives of the State Historical Society of Wisconsin. They originated with the over four hundred collections of paper and film records produced by a wide variety of individuals and groups, many of whom are described in Social Action Collections at the State Historical Society of Wisconsin: A Guide (Madison, 1983). The posters, as well as the paper records, are available for research and study at 816 State Street, Madison, Wisconsin 53706. Photographic copies, both black and white and color, are available for reproduction by permission. Please call Christine Schelshorn at (608) 264-6470, mail, or FAX a request to (608) 264-6472.

USEFUL SUNDAY LITERATURE FOR THE MASSES;
OR, MURDER MADE FAMILIAR.

Father of a Family observed, "The wretched Murderer is supposed to have cut the throats of his three eldest Children, and then to have killed the Baby by beating it repeatedly with a Baker's stick. . . . In person he is of a rather bloated appearance, with a bell-rose, small eyes, broad nose, and coarse vulpine mouth. His dress was a light blue coat, with loose trousers, elegant yellow ascot neck, and pepper-and-salt trousers. When at the Station House he expressed himself as being rather "peevish," and said he should like a Black Pudding, which, with a Cup of Coffee, was immediately procured for him."

J. Leech, Punch 17 (1849).
Southern Labor and Black Civil Rights
Organizing Memphis Workers
Michael K. Honey
Honey chronicles the industrial union movement from the Great Depression to the Cold War, focusing on the city of Memphis. His study of interracial industrial union organizing locates some of the roots of the 1960s civil rights struggles in this earlier era and provides a new context for understanding Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.'s 1968 campaign in support of poor people and black labor. Illus. Cl: $49.95; Pb: $17.95

These three books, now available together in paperback for the first time, have attracted widespread attention, provoked heated debates, and collectively reshaped our understanding of history of twentieth century American radicalism:

If I Had a Hammer
The Death of the Old Left and the Birth of the New Left
Maurice Isserman
"If I Had a Hammer is a pleasure to read. Better still, the book challenges our basic thinking about the supposed dark ages of American radicalism." — Sean Wilentz, The Nation. Illus. Pb: $12.95

Which Side Were You On?
The American Communist Party during the Second World War
Maurice Isserman
"The book's clear and unpretentious style ought to appeal to a broad readership of radicals intent on the lessons to be learned from the generation of Communists he examines." — Alan Wald, The Nation. "The best book yet produced on the American Communist party." — Kenneth E. Hendrickson, American Historical Review. Pb: $15.95

"This is not only the work of a major historian, it is just the kind of book you want to read: the real lives, the feel of the time, the experience of the struggle, the individuals who brought freedom and change."
—Kate Millet, author of Sexual Politics.

The five days of rioting that erupted from New York's Stonewall Inn in June of 1969 have become the central symbolic event of the modern gay movement. But up until now the actual story of the Stonewall Riots has never been told in full and accurate detail.

"A literary flair for drama, suspense, and just plain good story-telling. STONEWALL is not only fine history—it's also a fine read."
—Lillian Faderman, author of Odd Girls and Twilight Lovers.

In his newest work, renowned historian and activist Martin Duberman—the author of Cures: A Gay Man's Odyssey and the co-editor of Hidden From History—unfolds the story of the Stonewall Riots through the portrait of six ordinary individuals, four gay men and two lesbians. As he broadens their lives onto a larger historical canvas, Duberman recreates in vivid detail those heady, sweltering nights of June 1969, revealing a wealth of previously unknown material.

"Duberman has rescued from oblivion and preserved for posterity the primal episode of our history as gay Americans. Thank you Martin Duberman, we are all in your debt."
—Terrence McNally.

STONEWALL is a book that not only captures the spirit of gay and lesbian life during the decades of repression that led to the violence, but it burns with the sense of worth and solidarity, born of the struggle at Stonewall, which have escalated in the years since.
