The Other 9/11: Chile, 1973—Memory, Resistance, and Democratization

Editors’ Introduction
Alicia del Campo, Michael J. Lazzara, Heidi Tinsman, and Angela Vergara

FEATURE

The Political Architecture of Dictatorship: Chile before September 11, 1973
Brian Loveman

REFLECTIONS: POPULAR UNITY

Revisiting Pampa Irigoin: Social Movements, Repression, and Political Culture in 1960s Chile
Angela Vergara

Living the Chilean Revolution: Industrial Workers in Allende’s Chile
Peter Winn

Struggles in the Countryside: Gender Politics and Agrarian Reform in Democracy and Dictatorship
Heidi Tinsman

FORUM: DECOLONIZING MAPUCHE HISTORY AND ACTION

September 11 as Seen from the South:
The Allanamiento of Nehuentúe and the Question of National Security
Florecia E. Mallon
Mapuche Mnemonics: Reversing the Colonial Gaze through New Visualities of Extractive Capitalism
Macarena Gómez-Barris

No + Wingka Word: Sounds of Mapuche Resurgence in the Poetry of Leonel Lienlaf
Luis E. Cárcamo-Huechante

REFLECTIONS: MEMORY AND HUMAN RIGHTS

Memory: The Curious History of a Cultural Code Word
Steve J. Stern

Human Rights Defense in and through the Courts in (Post) Pinochet Chile
Cath Collins

Writing Complicity: The Ideological Adventures of Mariana Callejas
Michael J. Lazzara

Human Rights Violations: Memory and Reparations in Magallanes, Chile
Elizabeth Lira

“No” and No: The Campaign of 1988 and Pablo Larraín’s Film
Paula T. Cronovich

Theatricalities of Dissent: Human Rights, Memory, and the Student Movement in Chile
Alicia del Campo

CURATED SPACES

Sergio Castilla: The Emblematic Chilean Filmmaker
Verónica Cortínez
ARCHIVES

The Declassified Pinochet File: Delivering the Verdict of History
Peter Kornbluh

TEACHING RADICAL HISTORY

Teaching the Politics of Encounter: Empathic Unsettlement and the Outsider within Spaces of Memory in Chile
Katherine Hite

Notes on Contributors