The Romanic Review is a journal devoted to the study of Romance Literatures. Founded by Henry Alfred Todd in 1910, it is issued by the Department of French and Romance Philology of Columbia University with the cooperation of the Departments of Italian and Spanish.

Correspondence concerning subscriptions, orders, or other business should be addressed to The Romanic Review, Department of French and Romance Philology, MC4902, 515 Philosophy Hall, Columbia University, 1150 Amsterdam Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10027. Inquiries can also be made online: romanicsub@columbia.edu

Books for review and editorial communications should be addressed to Elisabeth Ladenson, General Editor, The Romanic Review, Department of French and Romance Philology, MC4902, 504 Philosophy Hall, Columbia University, 1150 Amsterdam Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10027.

Manuscripts should be addressed to The Romanic Review, Attn. Article Submission, Department of French and Romance Philology, MC4902, 504 Philosophy Hall, Columbia University, 1150 Amsterdam Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10027. The Review will not be responsible for the return of manuscripts. For all questions regarding preparations of manuscripts and printing style, consult the MLA Style Manual.

Manuscripts can also be submitted online: romanicpub@columbia.edu

Printed by Edwards Brothers, Inc. Type by Kinetic Publishing Services, LLC.