Teaching Anglophone Caribbean Literature

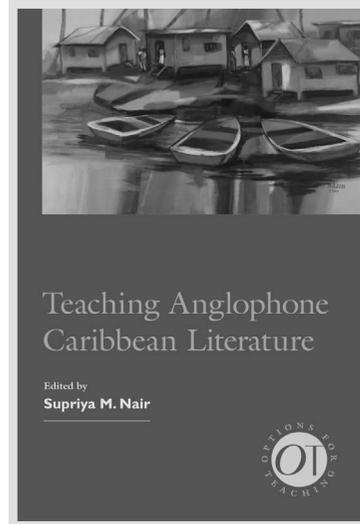

Edited by Supriya M. Nair

"This volume offers the necessary coverage, the range of critical approaches, and the practical instruction that will make it very useful to anyone teaching the subject."

—J. Michael Dash
New York University

This volume recommends resources for teaching topics such as the development of multiethnic populations in the Caribbean, the role of creole languages in the literature, oral art forms, anglophone Caribbean literature's influence, religious rituals and beliefs, and specific genres such as slave narratives and autobiography.

Sounding the Break

African American and Caribbean Routes of World Literature

Jason Frydman

$24.50 | PAPER | NEW WORLD STUDIES | AMERICAN LITERATURES INITIATIVE

Tracing the long history of literary traffic between Africa, Asia, and Europe, Jason Frydman revises the Eurocentric account of “world literature,” showing that it was already transnational in undergirding twentieth-century writing by African American and Caribbean authors.

The Haitian Revolution in the Literary Imagination

Radical Horizons, Conservative Constraints

Philip Kaisary

$29.50 | PAPER | NEW WORLD STUDIES | MODERN LANGUAGE INITIATIVE

Philip Kaisary shows how twentieth-century writers, artists, and intellectuals—through a range of genres and languages—understood and reinvented the birth of the world’s first independent black republic: Haiti.

Close Kin and Distant Relatives

The Paradox of Respectability in Black Women’s Literature

Susana M. Morris

$27.50 | PAPER | AMERICAN LITERATURES INITIATIVE

Contradictory narratives of the black family as loving, strong, and supportive versus pathological, broken, and dysfunctional lead Susana Morris to show how contemporary African American and African Caribbean women writers challenge respectability politics and advocate instead for community and accountability.

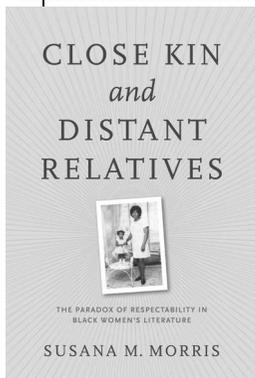

Bodies and Bones

Feminist Rehearsal and Imagining Caribbean Belonging

Tanya L. Shields

$24.50 | PAPER | NEW WORLD STUDIES | MODERN LANGUAGE INITIATIVE

Tanya Shields uses the term “feminist rehearsal” to describe her methodology for examining multiple and contradictory accounts of historical events in the Caribbean and to highlight the gendered connections between art, history, and belonging.

SAQ

"It's not easy to be both daring and indispensable, but SAQ has consistently been both. It has stretched its readers politically and geographically, setting a distinctive standard for its seriousness of thought and worldliness of topics."

—Bruce Robbins, Columbia University

Founded in 1901, the South Atlantic Quarterly provides bold analyses of the current intellectual scene, both nationally and worldwide. Published exclusively in special issues, this vanguard centenarian journal features some of the most prominent contemporary writers and scholars and tackles urgent political, cultural, and social questions.
