“His work can speak to the most intellectual person in the society as well as the most humble. It’s a very generous kind of genius he has, one I can’t imagine Haitian literature ever existing without.”
—Edwidge Danticat

Idle Talk, Deadly Talk
The Uses of Gossip in Caribbean Literature
Ana Rodríguez Navas
$35.00 | PAPER | NEW WORLD STUDIES

“The approach imaginative enough to reshape our understanding of Caribbean literature. Finely researched and elegantly written, Idle Talk, Deadly Talk is one such. A very special achievement.”
—Peter Hulme, University of Essex

The Haitian Diasporic Imaginary
Nadège T. Clitandre
$29.50 | PAPER | NEW WORLD STUDIES

“Wide-ranging and discerning, this book succeeds brilliantly in weaving together texts and contexts, biography and social analysis, critique and appreciation to yield a fine piece of scholarship destined to remain the gold standard on the subject for a long time.”
—Manfred B. Steger, University of Hawai’i
Meridians
feminism, race, transnationalism

Now published by Duke University Press

Meridians, an interdisciplinary feminist journal, provides a forum for the finest scholarship and creative work by and about women of color in U.S. and international contexts. The journal engages the complexity of debates around feminism, race, and transnationalism in a dialogue across ethnic, national boundaries, and disciplinary boundaries. Meridians publishes work that makes scholarship, poetry, fiction, and memoir by and about women of color central to history, economics, politics, geography, class, sexuality, and culture. The journal provokes the critical interrogation of the terms used to shape activist agendas, theoretical paradigms, and political coalitions.
