New from Stanford University Press

AVAILABLE IN MAY 2010

Growing Up in America
The Power of Race in the Lives of Teens

BRAD CHRISTERSON, KORIE L. EDWARDS, and RICHARD FLORY

“A wonderfully written, powerful book that enlightens as it engages. We cannot understand the meaning of race without understanding its formation in youth. And this is the very best book written on that subject.” —Michael O. Emerson, Rice University

$22.95 paper $60.00 cloth

What Can You Say?
America’s National Conversation on Race

JOHN HARTIGAN JR.

“John Hartigan uses a year’s worth of news stories—from the Jena six to Obama—to ponder what makes them racial. He argues these stories are riddled with ambiguity because the interpretive frames of race are changing. A provocative investigation and analysis of racial matters in the USA!” —Eduardo Bonilla-Silva, author of Racism without Racists: Color-Blind Racism and the Persistence of Racial Inequality in the United States

$24.95 cloth

Campaigning to the New American Electorate
Advertising to Latino Voters

MARISA A. ABRAJANO

“This is a compelling study of campaign advertising in an increasingly diverse nation. The topic is quite timely and the question of how campaigns reach out to Latino voters will continue to be a subject of great importance into the future.” —Janelle Wong, University of Southern California

$22.95 paper $65.00 cloth

Working the Night Shift
Women in India’s Call Center Industry

REENA PATEL

“Patel provides a rare glimpse into the lives of Indian women, as global call centers dislodge restrictions on mobility and transport them into night and public worlds. How these women navigate new freedoms of transportation, housing, and socializing is a fascinating story.” —Winifred Poster, Lecturer in Women, Gender, & Sexuality Studies, Washington University
