On Entrepreneurship: Immaterial Labor and Subjectivity in the Twenty-First Century
Imre Szeman and Dan Harvey, Special Issue Editors

Entrepreneurship as the New Common Sense
Imre Szeman

Investing in the Cruel Entrepreneurial University
Miranda Joseph

Entrepreneurial Journalism and the Precarious State of Media Work
Nicole S. Cohen

The Factory of Individuation: Cultural Labor and Class Composition in the Metropolis
Stevphen Shukaitis and Joanna Figiel

The Entrepreneurial Subject and the Objectivization of the Self in Social Media
Matthew Flisfeder

Wages against Artwork: The Social Practice of Decommodification
Leigh Claire La Berge

Sovereigns of Risk: The Birth of the Ontopreneur
Andrew Pendakiss

“The Property-less Sensorium”: Following the Subject in Crisis Times
Melanie Gilligan and Marina Vishmidt

Entrepreneurial U, or Bildung in the Ruins
Dan Harvey

Israeli Jews Address the Palestinian Boycott Call
Adi Ophir, Editor

The Challenge of the BDS
Adi Ophir

BDS Is As Good As It Gets
Dov Michaeli

On the Law, Politics, and Ethics of the BDS
Itamar Mann

Where Do You Draw the Line?
Galit Eilat

“We,” Palestinians and Jewish Israelis: The Right Not to Be a Perpetrator
Ariella Azoulay

The Challenge of the BDS
Adi Ophir

BDS Is As Good As It Gets
Dov Michaeli

On the Law, Politics, and Ethics of the BDS
Itamar Mann

Where Do You Draw the Line?
Galit Eilat

“We,” Palestinians and Jewish Israelis: The Right Not to Be a Perpetrator
Ariella Azoulay

“Scales of Economy 2, 2007
Acrylic on linen painting, 64 x 94 inch
Courtesy of Gow Langsford Gallery

On Entrepreneurship
Immaterial Labor and Subjectivity in the Twenty-First Century

Sara Hughes

Scales of Economy 2, 2007
Acrylic on linen painting, 64 x 94 inch
Courtesy of Gow Langsford Gallery

Duke