Since its inception in 1971, as the Journal of Narrative Technique, the JNT has provided a forum for the theoretical exploration of individual narrative texts. Building on the strengths of the original JNT, the editors of the Journal of Narrative Theory now seek essays that address the intersections between narrative, history, technology, ideology, and culture. The editors are particularly interested in essays that rethink narrative theory.

TSWL is the first journal devoted solely to women’s literature. For twenty-five years it has published ground-breaking articles, notes, research, and reviews of literary, historicist, and theoretical work by established and emerging scholars in the field of women’s literature and feminist theory. TSWL is two-time winner of the Council of Editors of Learned Journals (CELJ) Award for Special Issue. Recent issues still available are “Editing Early Modern Women Writers” (Fall 2003), “Where in the World is Transnational Feminism?” (Spring 2004), and “The Feminist Legacy of Carolyn Heilbrun” (Fall 2005).

Diaspora is dedicated to the multidisciplinary study of the history, culture, social structure, politics and economics of both the traditional diasporas – Armenian, Greek, and Jewish – and those transnational dispersions which in the past three decades have chosen to identify themselves as ‘diasporas.’ These encompass groups ranging from the African-American to the Ukrainian-Canadian, from the Caribbean-British to the new East and South Asian diasporas.
SubStance is important to you. But don’t take our word for it...

“SubStance (is) one of the most influential journals of theory and criticism in the United States”
— Le Monde

“SubStance has acquired the reputation of an exciting and innovative journal and as a vehicle of French avant-garde thought.”
— The Modern Language Journal

“SubStance has played an essential role in the elaboration of a new and rigorous thinking in philosophy, literature, psychoanalysis, the human sciences, the discourse on art in general as much in the United States as in France. SubStance has become a work of reference for all those who study and create in these fields.”
— Jacques Derrida

A review of theory and literary criticism
SubStance has a long-standing reputation for publishing innovative work on literature and culture. While its main focus has been on French literature and continental theory, the journal is renowned for its openness to original thinking in all the disciplines that intersect with literature, including philosophy, natural and social sciences, and the arts. Join the discerning readers of SubStance, who enjoy crossing barriers and challenging limits.

CROSSINGS
A COUNTER-DISCIPLINARY JOURNAL

CROSSINGS is a yearly publication that invites contributions from a variety of disciplinary perspectives. Of particular interest are submissions which foreground the limits of their own disciplinary practices and which attempt to situate those practices within their own history.

The editors of CROSSINGS are continually interested in reviewing high-quality submissions for upcoming issues. While each issue is generally organized around a theme, we always welcome unsolicited articles relevant to our journal’s concerns.

Annual subscription rates are $11 for individuals and $21 for institutions. Please contact us at:
