Submissions Visit the TSQ home page (www.lgbt.arizona.edu/TSQ-main) to see calls for papers for upcoming issues. Essays should be submitted to the editorial assistant at tsqjournal@gmail.com. We do not accept submissions of previously published work. Neither do we accept submissions that are under review or have been accepted for publication elsewhere. The journal uses the author-date form of citation as described in chapter 15 of The Chicago Manual of Style. To facilitate the anonymous review process, please include your name, affiliation, contact information, and any other identifying information on a separate cover page, and be sure that citations to your own work are worded to maintain your anonymity. We also welcome proposals for special issues on a particular theme. Visit the homepage of the TSQ editorial office for information about submitting a proposal for a special issue.

Reviews Contact the appropriate review editors if you have a proposal or inquiry regarding a potential review subject. Please do not submit unsolicited reviews.

Cover: We Have Always Been Here, by Louis Esmé Cruz. Ink on paper, 2014

The foundational agreements of colonial Canada and the United States are recorded in Indigenous wampum belts. Giving and receiving wampum beads are meant to restore balance in relationships. Each of the seven diamonds depicted in the belt represent the foundations of Indigenous communities: two-spirited people and women. Currently, there are over eighty documented cases of murdered and missing Indigenous two-spirited people and women in Canada. Our bodies are intimately tied to Land and are intricately tied to the balance of the entire planet. Although there are many attempts to exterminate us, we are not going anywhere. Please see the Walking with Our Sisters art exhibit to learn more about creative community responses to colonial violence.
